Take a Bite of the Big Apple 2009-2010

This guide has been prepared by your public library as a service to the community. We hope that residents will find it useful.

The information included is accurate as of September 2009. Phone numbers have been furnished so that you have the option of calling ahead and confirming the data we have provided. Changes occur constantly.

The city's crime rate is going down with regularity. However, caution is still advised. Women should hold onto their purses and never hang them on a chair in a restaurant. Men are advised to carry wallets in their front pants pocket (never in a hip pocket). Of course, avoid deserted blocks in out-of-the-way neighborhoods. If a street feels unsafe, it probably is. Proceed to the nearest avenue and take a taxi. These precautions should be undertaken in any major city in the world.

Transportation

Driving in Manhattan can be a nightmare of gridlocked streets. During rush hours especially, it's best to park your car, walk, or use public transportation. Though you will get to see much more by bus, the subway is the fastest way to get around the island.

Subway & Bus

Run by the Metropolitan Transit Authority (MTA), the 714-mile subway system operates 24 hours a day, is cheaper than a cab, relatively safe and the best way to travel during peak hours. The fare is $2.25 ($1.10 for seniors*) and you pay with a MetroCard bought at staffed station booths or from a vending machine (cash, credit or debit card). You can transfer numerous times but such transfers generally have a 2-hour time limit. A good source for figuring out the best way to get to your destination is www.hopstop.com or phone the MTA at (718) 330-1234. Of course, you can ask the station agent or pick up a map of the subway system at station booths. Prices for buses are the same as above and payment must be made by MetroCard or exact change. A transfer is issued (upon request) when boarding the bus only. It is valid only for routes traveling in the same direction and there is a 2-hour time limit.

*The reduced fare is not available during peak periods, 6-10 AM and 3-7 PM.

Museums, Historic Houses and Special Places

American Folk Art Museum – 45 W. 53rd St. – (212) 265-1040 – www.folkartmuseum.org

Displays include a wide range of American folk art from the 18th century to the present. The building itself is a work of art. Designed by the husband and wife team of Tod Williams and Billie Tsein, the bronze panels on the façade reflect light from different angles. A visit to the gift shop is a must.

American Museum of Natural History – Central Park West at 79th St. – (212) 769-5100

www.amnh.org

Founded in 1869, this outstanding museum, covering four city blocks, presents the natural sciences to the lay person. It contains approximately 36 million artifacts ranging from microscopic organisms to the Star of India sapphire. Make sure to take a free “highlights” tour. A visit to the Rose Center for Earth & Space is also a must. To insure your admission to the Space Show, particularly on weekends, order your tickets online. Children (adults as well) will love the Butterfly Conservatory which is open from October through May.

Asia Society – 725 Park Ave. (70th St.) – (212) 288-6400 – www.asiasociety.org

Founded in 1956 by John D. Rockefeller III to serve as a showcase for Asian and Asian/American art, the Asia Society underwent a $30-million dollar expansion that doubled the exhibition space. Call ahead or go online for a schedule of exhibits.

Bronx Zoo Wildlife Conservation Park – Bronx River Pkwy. at Fordham Rd., Bronx
(718) 367-1010 – www.bronxzoo.com

The zoo covers 265 acres of parkland (Bronx Park) and is home to over 4,000 animals. Many are endangered species. The most popular exhibits include the Congo Gorilla Forest, the Himalayan Highlands Habitat and the indoor Asian Rain Forest. The admission is free on Wednesdays though there may be an additional charge for some exhibits. The New York Botanical Garden shares Bronx Park with the zoo.

Brooklyn Botanic Garden – 900 Washington Ave. (at Eastern Pkwy.), Brooklyn – (718) 623-7200
www.bbg.org

Rejuvenate your spirit in the 53 beautifully landscaped acres of the Garden adjacent to the Brooklyn Museum of Art. Make the trip in late April when the cherry blossoms are in bloom. Admission is free Tuesdays and Saturdays before noon.

Brooklyn Museum of Art – 200 Eastern Pkwy. (Washington Ave.), Brooklyn – (718) 638-5000
www.brooklynmuseum.org

Housed in a monumental beaux arts building, it is the second largest art museum in the U.S. (second only to the Met) and boasts magnificent collections ranging from Egyptian antiquities to contemporary American art. Make sure to visit the Elizabeth A. Sackler Center for Feminist Art which opened in the spring of 2007.

Cathedral of St. John the Divine – 1047 Amsterdam Ave. (112th St.), (212) 316-7490 www.stjohndivine.org Call (212) 932-7347 for tour information and reservations.

Construction of this building (the largest Gothic cathedral in the world) has been a work in progress since 1892. For a truly interesting Manhattan experience, make a reservation for a tour. St. John's embraces an interfaith tradition but remains the seat of the Episcopal Diocese of New York.

Center for Jewish History – 15 W. 16th St. – (212) 294-8301 – www.cjh.org

Opened in late 2000, this building houses the most extensive collection of Jewish art, history and literature. It unites the American Jewish Historical Society, the Leo Baeck Institute, Yeshiva University Museum, YIVO Institute for Jewish Research and the American Sephardi Federation. Yeshiva University Museum occupies the main gallery space.

Children's Museum of Manhattan – 212 W. 83rd St., (between Broadway and Amsterdam Aves.)
(212) 721-1234 – www.cmom.org

The five stories of this building provide interactive exhibits for children ages 1-10. Activities include art workshops, storytelling, puppet shows, science programs, etc. As well as the programs for older children, there are wonderful activities for children 4 and under.

China Institute Gallery - 125 E. 65th St. (between Lexington & Park Aves.), (212) 744-8181
www.chinainstitute.org

The focus is on Chinese art, history and culture. The institute's gallery is open for two exhibitions each year (September-November and March-June). Check the website for interesting programs.

Citi Field – Roosevelt Ave. off the Grand Central Pkwy, Queens – (718) 507-8499 – www.mets.com
Adjacent to the old Shea Stadium, this is the beautiful new home of the New York Mets.

The Cloisters – Fort Tryon Park & 190th St. – (212) 923-3700 – www.metmuseum.org

A branch of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, this complex was constructed from the ruins of five medieval cloisters. Don't miss the famous Unicorn Tapestries and the Unicorn Garden which blooms with the flowers and plants depicted in the tapestries. A free Highlights Tour is offered Tuesday through Friday and Sunday at noon. Check the website, as you may want to schedule your visit to coincide with a concert or other special program. After the tours, relax and have an espresso and biscotti at the café.

Columbia University – Broadway & 116th St., Visitor’s Center (212) 854-4900 – www.columbia.edu
Columbia University covers 34 acres in Morningside Heights. There are sculptures by Rodin, Giacometti and Moore as well programs that open to the general public. Tours can be arranged through the Visitor’s Center, located in Room 213, Low Library.

Cooper-Hewitt National Design Museum – 2 E. 91st St. (Fifth Ave.) – (212) 849-8400
www.cooperhewitt.org

A branch of the Smithsonian Institution, the museum is housed in the former home of industrialist, Andrew Carnegie. It is a treasure trove of decorative arts. Though it is still open, the museum is undergoing a renovation which is expected to greatly increase gallery space.

Ellis Island – Ellis Island, New York Harbor – (212) 363-3200 or call (212) 269-5755 for ferry information – www.ellisland.org - The ferry leaves from Battery Park.

After a magnificent restoration, the island’s main building opened as the Ellis Island Immigration Museum. Make sure to see the film, “Island of Hope, Island of Tears,” and take the audio guide ($6) as it is extremely worthwhile. Admission is free but the ferry is $12 round-trip. The ferry stops at both Ellis Island and Liberty Island (Statue of Liberty).

El Museo Del Barrio – 1230 Fifth Ave. (104th St.) – (212) 831-7272 – www.elmuseo.org

Founded in 1969 by artist Raphael Montanez Ortiz and a group of Puerto Rican educators, artists, parents and community activists, it is now the leading Latino arts and cultural institution. It is located on the northern end of Museum Row.

Empire State Building – 350 Fifth Ave. (at 34th St.) – (212) 736-3100 – www.esbnyc.com

This 102-story building opened in 1931 during the depths of the Depression at a cost of one million dollars and since that dreadful day, September 11, 2001, it is once again the tallest building in New York. There are observatories on the 86th and 102nd floors to view the panorama of the city. To bypass long lines, we strongly urge you to buy observatory tickets online. There’s a $2 surcharge, but it’s worth it!

Federal Reserve Bank – 33 Liberty St. (between William & Nassau Sts.) – (212) 720-6130
www.newyorkfed.org

Free tours of the subterranean gold vaults (valued at $140 billion) are given five times a day but reservations must be made at least five days in advance. The hour-long tours cover the vaults, the trading desk and “FedWorks,” a multimedia exhibit where you can track hypothetical trades. Make sure you have a photo ID (driver’s license or passport) or you will not be admitted. Arrive at least 20 minutes before your scheduled tour to go through security.

The Forbes Galleries – 62 Fifth Ave. (12th St.) – (212) 206-5548 – www.forbesgalleries.com

Tucked within the lobby of Forbes Magazine headquarters, the galleries display the personal collections of Malcolm Forbes. You may visit from Tuesday through Saturday from 10-4 and admission is free. Thursdays are reserved for group tours with advanced reservations.

The Frick Collection – 1 E. 70th St. – (212) 288-0700 – www.frick.org

This is a highlight of any trip to New York. Once the luxurious home of Henry Clay Frick, the mansion serves as a magnificent backdrop for the collection of masterpieces ranging from the Renaissance to mid-nineteenth century. Children under 10 are not permitted and children ages 10-16 must be accompanied by an adult.

Gracie Mansion – East End Ave. at 88th St. – (212) 570-4751 – www.nyc.gov
Once the country house of a wealthy merchant, it is the official home of New York City’s mayor. Mayor Bloomberg chooses to live in his own residence but he holds meetings and entertains here. Guided tours may be arranged but you must make a reservation. Walk-ins are not permitted. Delightful “tea tours” may be arranged for groups of 25-30 on Tuesdays and Thursdays for $25 per person.

The High Line – On the west side of Manhattan from Gansevoort St. in the Meatpacking District to W. 20th St. in Chelsea – www.thehighline.org
This is a “walking” elevated park that was once a railroad track for freight trains. The park will eventually stretch to 30th Street. Check the website for children’s programs, water features and announcements. If you need an elevator, enter on 16th Street.

The Hispanic Society of America – Audubon Terrace (155-156th Sts) – (212) 926-2234
www.hispanicsociety.org
The Society houses a treasure trove of Spanish ceramics, medieval tombs and the art of such painters as Goya, El Greco and Velasquez. Another attraction is the outdoor sculpture garden created by Anne Hyatt Huntington.

International Center of Photography (ICP) – 1133 6th Ave. (43rd St.) – (212) 857-0000 www.icp.org
Founded in 1974, it has become a leading museum and photography school showcasing the works of some of the most famous photographers in the world. Visit the website to check on current exhibitions.

Intrepid Sea-Air-Space Museum – Pier 86 at 46th St. & 12th Ave. – (212) 245-0072
www.intrepidmuseum.org
The Intrepid returns to its home at Pier 86 after a two year renovation and restoration project. Guests will now be able to visit the “behind-the-scenes” areas. This aircraft carrier is a veteran of World War II and the Vietnam War. It was also the recovery vessel for the Mercury and Gemini space missions. The Growler, a strategic-missile submarine, is also a part of the museum.

Isamu Noguchi Garden Museum – 9-01 33rd Rd. (Vernon Blvd.), Long Island City, Queens
(718) 204-7088 – www.noguchi.org
A factory district in Queens is the site of this tranquil sculpture garden and museum, housing the works of Noguchi. Although the renovated museum has a fresh look, great care has been taken to preserve the feel of an industrial space. A new gallery has been created devoted to Noguchi’s celebrated work in interior design.

The Jewish Museum – 1109 Fifth Ave. (92nd St.) – (212) 423-3200 – www.thejewishmuseum.org
The Museum is housed in the expanded and renovated mansion of financier and philanthropist Felix Warburg. Housed on the top two floors, the permanent collection, “Culture and Continuity: the Jewish Journey,” traces Jewish culture and identity over 4,000 years. Take the audio guide as it is free with the price of admission.

Lower East Side Tenement Museum – 108 Orchard St. (Delancy & Broome Sts.) – (212) 431-0233
www.tenement.org

Experience a visual exhibition of 19th and early 20th century immigrant life. The only way to see the museum is by guided tour. The apartments only hold 15 people, so it may be advisable to reserve tickets in advance. Walking tours of the neighborhood are held regularly.

Madame Tussaud's New York – 234 W. 42nd St. (7th-8th Aves.) – (212) 521-9600 www.madame-tussauds.com.

There are about 200 replicas of famous people. The fun comes from taking photos with your favorite star or sports hero.

Metropolitan Museum of Art – Fifth Ave. at 82nd St. – (212) 535-7710 – www.metmuseum.org
It's the top! This world famous institution is richly endowed and has magnificent collections from prehistoric times to the present. It's an encyclopedia of 5,000 years of art! As the largest museum in the Western hemisphere, it houses approximately 3,000,000 objects and covers more than seven square miles. The audio guide can be used throughout the museum ($7).

The Morgan Library and Museum – 225 Madison Ave. (36th St.) – (212)685-0008
www.themorgan.org

Once the library and home of J. Pierpont Morgan, the museum experienced an extensive renovation which doubled the gallery space while preserving the original Renaissance style of architect Charles McKim. A new reading room, auditorium, café and beautiful restaurant have been added as well. It's a fabulous collection of original manuscripts, master drawings and rare books. The Morgan Dining Room is quite beautiful and requires reservations. Call (212) 683-2130.

Morris-Jumel Mansion – 65 Jumel Terrace (160th St., east of St. Nicholas Ave.) – (212) 923-8008
www.morrisjumel.org

George Washington slept here! Yes, it's true. He made this home his headquarters in 1776. Built in 1765 for British Colonel Roger Morris and his American wife as a summer villa, it is a delightful surprise in the midst of Harlem. After seeing the house, take a walk to Sylvan Terrace, a charming series of row homes.

Museum of Jewish Heritage – A Living Memorial to the Holocaust – 36 Battery Pl. (Battery Park City at 1st Place) – (646) 437-4200 – www.mjhnyc.org

Created as a living memorial to the holocaust victims in a Star of David shaped building, it honors those who died by celebrating their lives. The museum is also a repository of video interviews by Steven Spielberg's "Survivors of the Shoah Visual History Foundation." Take the audio tour narrated by Meryl Streep and Itzhak Perlman.

Museum of Modern Art (MoMA) – 11 W.53rd St. – (212) 708-9400 – www.moma.org

Architect Yoshio Taniguchi, besides doubling the display space, has redesigned this museum so that the galleries are suffused with natural light. The collection is a marvel of modern and contemporary art. Make sure to see Van Gogh's Starry Night, Picasso's Demoiselles d'Avignon and Monet's Water Lilies (my personal favorites).

Museum of the City of New York – 1220 Fifth Ave. (103rd St.) – (212) 534-1672 – www.mcny.org
Trace the course of the Big Apple from New Amsterdam to the present day. Don't miss the 2nd floor with entire rooms from the demolished homes of New York's society families (including a bedroom from the home of John D. Rockefeller, Sr.). After a visit to the museum, cross the street to Central Park and visit the Conservatory Garden. It's a treat!

Museum of the Moving Image – 35th Ave. at 36th St., Astoria, Queens – (718) 784-0077
www.movingimage.us

The museum is undergoing a major expansion and renovation which should be completed early in 2010. The major exhibition, "Behind the Scenes" is still open but programs are being held off-site. Check the website for further information.

National Academy – 1083 Fifth Ave. (89th St.) – (212) 369-4880 – www.nationalacademy.org
Founded in 1825, the National Academy is an honorary society of professional artists, a museum and a school of fine arts. Each member is required to donate a work of art and members include Samuel Morse, Winslow Homer, John Singer Sargent and Robert Rauschenberg. The museum is the former home of sculptor Anne Hyatt Huntington.

National Museum of the American Indian – (Smithsonian Institution) – 1 Bowling Green
(212) 514-3700 – www.americanindian.si.edu
What began as the private collection of George Gustav Heye has grown into the largest collection of Native American materials in the world. Admission is free.

Neue Galerie – 1048 Fifth Ave. (86th St.) – (212) 628-6200 – www.neuegalerie.org
The Neue Gallery, founded by art dealer Serge Sabarsky and cosmetics businessman Ronald S. Lauder, is housed in the former home of Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt III. The focus of the collection is early 20th century German and Austrian art and design (Klimt, Kandinsky, Klee, Schiele, etc.). The audio guide is free with admission. Note that children under 12 are not admitted and children from 12-16 must be accompanied by an adult. On the lower level is the Café Sabarsky but there are usually long lines.

New York Aquarium – Surf Ave. & W. 8th St., Coney Island, Brooklyn – (718) 265-3474
www.nyaquarium.com
As the only aquarium in New York City, over 8,000 animals are featured. Take a bumpy ride on the Deep Sea 3D. Visit Brooklyn's biggest baby, a Pacific walrus calf, or catch one of the daily feeds for sharks, penguins, walruses and sea otters. And, of course, no trip is complete without a visit to the sea lions. It's a great family day!

New York Botanical Garden – Bronx River Pkwy at Fordham Rd., Bronx – (718) 817-8700
www.nybg.org
Founded more than 100 years ago, the gardens are spread over 250 acres. The Enid A. Haupt Conservatory, a series of glass pavilions, recreates tropical rain forests and arid deserts as well as hosting changing exhibitions. The specialty gardens and 40 acres of uncut forest (which is as close as the city ever gets to its virgin state) are not to be missed.

New York City Fire Museum – 278 Spring St. (Varick & Hudson Sts.) – (212) 691-1303
www.nycfiremuseum.org

This museum houses one of the nation’s most extensive collections of fire related arts and artifacts from the 18th century to the present. In conjunction with the New York City Fire Department, it operates a safety education program. Visit the first floor’s permanent September 11th exhibit. The department lost 343 members in the World Trade Center disaster.

New York City Police Museum – 100 Old Slip (South St.) – (212) 480-3100
www.nycpolicemuseum.org

Visitors get an inside look at the history and traditions of the largest police force in the country from colonial times to the present. The featured multi-media exhibit is “9/11 Remembered” which chronicles the extraordinary role of the NYPD in response to September 11th. The story of New York’s Finest is told through their eyes and their own words.

New-York Historical Society – 170 Central Park W. (77th St.) – (212) 873-3400 – www.nyhistory.org
Founded in 1804 (when a hyphen was still a part of the city’s name) its holdings cover 4 centuries of American history with an emphasis on the city and state. It is the city’s oldest museum and one of the nation’s most distinguished research libraries. Visit the Henry Luce III Center and take the audio tour as it brings the artifacts to life with anecdotes and stories.

New York Public Library – Fifth Avenue & 42nd St. – (212) 930-0800 or (212) 869-8089 for exhibit information - www.nypl.org

This is no ordinary library. Rare books, folios and manuscripts are all part of its collection. The magnificent beaux arts building was built in 1911 and financed largely by John Jacob Astor. Rotating exhibitions are also featured on the 3rd floor galleries. Don’t miss the Rose Main Reading Room which covers two city blocks! Free one-hour tours leave Tuesday-Saturday at 11 AM and 2 PM from Astor Hall. Mayor La Guardia said he visited the building so he could “read between the lions” which he named “Patience” and “Fortitude.”

P.S.1 Contemporary Art Center – 22-25 Jackson Ave. (46th Ave.), Long Island City – (718) 784-2084
www.psl.org

This renovated building was once an abandoned public school and is now a partner of MoMA. They exhibit the works of emerging artists from New York and around the world. The shows are usually extremely cutting edge.

The Paley Center for Media – 25 W. 52nd St. – (212) 621-6800 – www.paleycenter.org

Previously known as the Museum of Television and Radio, the Paley Center has locations in New York and Los Angeles. Founded by William S. Paley in 1975, these galleries are devoted to the history of broadcasting. While sitting in one of the broadcast centers, you can recreate radio’s golden age and memorable moments in television. It’s nice to rediscover how good some of these programs really were!

Schomburg Center for Research in Black Culture – 515 Malcolm X Blvd. (135th St.)
(212) 491-2200 – www.nypl.org (link to “Libraries”)

A branch of the New York Public Library, this research facility is devoted to preserving materials on the history of peoples of African descent throughout the world. Make an appointment for a tour so you can see the murals of Aaron Douglas. Inlaid into the floor at the entrance of the Langston Hughes Auditorium is his work “Rivers,” a memorial to Hughes, who is interred here.

Solomon R. Guggenheim Museum – 1071 Fifth Ave. (89th St.) – (212) 423-3500

www.guggenheim.org

The original white spiral building was designed by Frank Lloyd Wright so that art could be viewed in natural light on each of the six levels. A tower addition has added more space to display its enormous contemporary art collection. The fifth floor terrace in the tower building offers dazzling views of the city.

Sony Wonder Technology Lab – Sony Bldg. – 550 Madison Ave. (56th St) – (212) 833-5414 for reservations – www.sonywondertechlab.com

Explore exciting new exhibits in this state-of-the-art facility that brings technology and creativity together and makes it entertaining and fun. Admission is free but call ahead for reservations as space is extremely limited.

South Street Seaport Historic District & Museum – Water & South Sts. – (212) SEA-PORT

www.southstseaport.org

The Seaport is a celebration of old New York. Visit the shops, restaurants and the museum at 12 Fulton Street or call (212) 748-8600. The museum seeks to preserve the history of the city as a world port. From shipping to immigration, the waterfront has played a crucial role in the development of the New York.

Statue of Liberty & the Statue of Liberty Museum - Liberty Island, New York Harbor

(212) 363-3200 - www.nps/stli.com or www.statuecruises.com

For ferry information call (212)269-5755.

Everyone has to visit Lady Liberty at least once! The ferry leaves from Battery Park and forms a loop with Ellis Island. To guarantee a spot on a tour, order tickets online or by phone at (877) 523-9849. You pay a service charge but avoid the long ticket lines.

United Nations – First Ave. & 46th St. – (212) 963-8687 – www.un.org/tours

Be sure to bring a photo ID. You may enter the General Assembly from the 46th Street door. The interior corridors overflow with artwork donated by member nations. The United Nations is not part of the U.S. but an international zone. Take a 45-minute tour (given in 20 languages) which originates from the lobby. The Delegates Dining Room (212-963-7625) is open for a buffet lunch ($25) but gentlemen must wear jackets (no sneakers or jeans) and reservations are required.

Whitney Museum of American Art – 945 Madison Ave. (75th St.) – (212) 570-3676

www.whitney.org

The Whitney grew out of the Greenwich Village studio of sculptress and art collector Gertrude Vanderbilt Whitney. It now houses one of the finest collections of 20th century American art. Sarabeth's at the Whitney is a great restaurant for brunch or lunch (212-570-3670).

Yankee Stadium – 161st St. & River Ave., the Bronx – (718) 293-6000 – www.yankees.com

The new Yankee Stadium, a monument to Yankee history, is just finishing its first season. On a personal note, I miss the announcer's echo in the background. It's gone!

Calendar of Special Events

New Year's Eve – Because of the crowds, it's best to stay home and watch your TV as the ball drops at midnight at One Times Square.

Musical New York

If it's great music that you want, then New York is the place to go. The New York Philharmonic, founded in 1842, is the oldest orchestra in the United States. The City is also home to three renowned conservatories (Juilliard, the Manhattan School of Music and Mannes College of Music), the Metropolitan Opera, the New York City Opera, the American Ballet Theatre, The New York City Ballet and a myriad of other venues for all types of music, from classical to rock and everything in between.

Concert Halls & Landmark Sites

Apollo Theatre – 253 W. 125th St. – (212)531-5300 – www.apollotheater.com

Built in 1914, a newly restored Apollo is slated to be completed in 2009. Since 1934, every Wednesday night at 7:30 PM, performers grace the stage in the hope of launching their careers. Listed among the alumni are Ella Fitzgerald, Sarah Vaughn, Billie Holiday, Michael Jackson, etc. For a great tour of the theater, contact Billy Mitchell at (212) 531-5337. After the tour, you can go over to Sylvia's world famous soul food restaurant at 328 Lenox Avenue.

Brooklyn Academy of Music – 30 Lafayette Ave., Brooklyn – (718) 636-4100 - www.bam.org

BAM is recognized internationally as a preeminent, progressive cultural center. The current programming consists of the Next Wave Festival each fall and a spring season of opera, theater and dance. Recent additions include the BAMcafe, a restaurant and live music venue, and the BAM Rose Cinemas.

Carnegie Hall – 881 7th Ave. (57th St.) – (212) 247-7800 – www.carnegiehall.org

For music lovers worldwide, this is the ultimate destination. (How do you get to Carnegie Hall? Practice!) The Isaac Stern Auditorium is acoustically unsurpassed and the world's top orchestras love to perform here. The smaller Weill Recital Hall is usually used for chamber music concerts and vocal and instrumental recitals. Zankel Hall has recently been renovated and also has fine acoustics.

Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts – Broadway & 64th St. – (212) 546-2656

www.lincolncenter.org

Lincoln Center is the world's leading arts center. The New York Philharmonic makes its home at Avery Fisher Hall. Conductor Lorin Maazel finished his last season and is succeeded by Alan Gilbert. The Chamber Music Society performs at Alice Tully Hall which is considered acoustically perfect. The jazz venue for Lincoln Center is actually in the Time Warner Center at 60th Street and Broadway. The Lincoln Center Jazz Orchestra, led by Wynton Marsalis, performs at the Rose Theater. The Allen Room is another performance place at the Center. It features a glass wall behind the stage and overlooks the glittering lights of Columbus Circle. Awesome!

Madison Square Garden – 7th Ave. from 31-33 Sts. – (212) 465-MSG1 – www.thegarden.com

Great rock and pop stars regularly fill this 20,000 seat arena which is also home to the Knicks and the Rangers. Ringling Bros. Circus, the Ice Capades and the International Car Show are also featured here. The WaMu Theater hosts major pop stars and theatrical productions.

92nd Street Y – 1395 Lexington Ave. (92nd St.) – (212) 415-5500 – www.92ndsty.org

It's the place for top-rated cultural happenings. The Y operates as a lecture hall, a performance space, a school, a health center and a community organization. Isaac Stern, Yo-Yo Ma, Judy Collins, Paul Robeson and countless other luminaries have performed here.

Radio City Music Hall – 1260 6th Ave. (50th St.), (212) 247-4777 – www.radiocity.com

This is the largest indoor theater in the world and a marvel of art-deco design. More than 300 million people have come to enjoy stage shows, movies, concerts and special events. Visiting pop stars perform here regularly. The Christmas season wouldn't be the same without the Christmas spectacular starring the Rockettes.

Town Hall – 123 W. 43rd St. (6-7 Aves.) – (212) 840-2824 – www.the-townhall-nyc.org

The outstanding acoustics make it an ideal place for diverse performances including dance, theater, drama, film and music.

Opera

Metropolitan Opera – Metropolitan Opera House, Lincoln Center, Broadway & 64th St

(212) 362-6000 – www.metopera.org

This is the most widely heard opera company in the world. They have attained one of the finest orchestras and choruses under the direction of James Levine. It's the top! Standing room tickets are available on the day of the performance from 10 AM ($15-$20) online or by phone. Seniors may purchase $20 same day orchestra tickets online or by phone on Mondays through Thursdays starting at 12 noon.

New York City Opera – David H. Koch Theater, Lincoln Center, Broadway & 64th St.

(212) 870-5570 – www.nycopera.com

The company was founded in 1943 and is celebrated for its adventurous programming. Renovations have been completed and the new season is opening in the beautiful renamed David H. Koch Theater. Check the website for more information.

New York Gilbert & Sullivan Players – 302 W. 91st St. – (212) 769-1000 – www.nygasp.org

Enjoy an evening of light-hearted operetta with America's preeminent professional Gilbert & Sullivan repertory ensemble under the artistic direction of Albert Bergeret. The New York season is spent at City Center (131 W. 55th St. between 6-7 Aves.). Don't forget the New Year's Eve Champagne Gala at Symphony Space (Broadway & 95th St.).

Dance

American Ballet Theater – Metropolitan Opera House, Lincoln Center, Broadway & 64th St.

(212) 477-3030 – www.abt.org

The company makes its home at the Metropolitan Opera House. However, for two weeks in the fall, they perform at City Center (131 W. 55th St. between 6-7 Aves.). Enjoy the beautiful performances of classical ballets as well as the modern masters.

Brooklyn Academy of Music (BAM) – 30 Lafayette Ave., Brooklyn - (718) 636-4100

www.bam.org

All Kinds of Stores on the Upper East Side

The upper east side of New York was, at one time, the center of fashionable shopping for the “ladies who lunch.” We now have great stores all over the city (Tribeca, Nolita, Dumbo, Soho, Noho, Chelsea, Greenwich Village, the upper west side, etc.). However, I've chosen to stay on the upper east side as museums and department stores abound.

American Girl Place – 608 Fifth Ave. (49th St.) – (212)371-2220 – www.americangirl.com

Though not strictly on the upper east side, this is a must for that little girl of yours. Have lunch in the café with her doll and then visit the doll salon or theater. You'll find a tremendous array of dolls and accessories. Make sure to make a reservation.

Argosy Book Store – 116 E. 59th St. (Park & Lexington Aves.) – (212) 753-4455 www.argosybooks.com – Though books are their main business, they have antique maps and prints.

Artbag Creations – 1130 Madison Ave. (84th St.) – (212) 744-2720 – www.artbag.com

They make, sell or repair any handbag and give it new life.

Bambini – 1088 Madison Ave. (82nd St.) – (212) 717-6742

The children's clothes are fun to look at but the prices are not fun to look at.

Beneath – 265 E. 78th St. (2nd Ave.) – (212) 288-3800 – www.beneathnyc.com

Lovely lingerie, moderate prices, good sales help...

Betsey Bunkie Nini – 980 Lexington Ave. (71-72nd Sts.) – (212)744-6716

Interesting but expensive women's fashions...

Calling All Pets – 301 E. 76th St. (1-2nd Aves) – (212) 734-7051

Posh Places to Powder Your Nose

Public restrooms are not always perfect. The facilities at Penn Station have improved but are best early in the day. Large bookstores, Starbucks, department stores and the lobbies of hotels are usually your best bet. Some posh places to powder your nose are...

Henri Bendel – 712 Fifth Ave. (55-56th Sts.) – On the lower level... absolutely beautiful...

Bergdorf Goodman – 754 Fifth Ave. (58th St.) – One of the best places in town...

Bryant Park – It's nestled behind the main branch of the N.Y. Public Library (5-6th Aves. & 40-42nd Sts.) The public bathrooms are so clean, you'll think it's a mirage.

Marriot Marquis – 1535 Broadway (45th St.) – It's in the theater district. Take the elevator to the lobby level which is on the eighth floor.

Millennium Broadway – 145 W. 44th St. (6-7th Aves.) – It's also in the theater district.

Pierre Hotel – 61st St. & Fifth Ave. – Enter the lobby on 5th Avenue and go to the left.

FAO Schwarz – 767 5th Ave. (58th St.) – It's fun to walk through and has clean bathrooms as well.

Waldorf-Astoria Hotel – 50th St. & Park Ave. - Enter through the Park Avenue side.

SoHo History

In the early 1800s, this area was densely settled and contained most of New York's fashionable stores, elegant hotels and popular theaters. By the Civil War years, the center of entertainment and business had moved north to the 14th street area. Textile, clothing, fur and millinery manufacturers took over SoHo (coined from "south of Houston Street") converting and replacing existing buildings with the cast iron edifices you see today. Behind the classic facades was sweatshop labor. As labor laws and unions changed the plight of workers, SoHo turned into a wasteland of empty buildings and warehouses. In the 1950s and 60s, artists and writers began moving into the area, attracted by spacious lofts with low rents. Many of them formed cooperatives, bought buildings and started associations to bring about zoning changes. In the 1970s, SoHo and the art market boomed and hasn't stopped yet. The high rentals have driven out all but the most successful artists. Many of the galleries have also moved to the more affordable Chelsea and Tribeca ("triangle below Canal Street") sections. Stylish boutiques and fashionable restaurants now dominate the area. Pete Hamill's impression of SoHo is, "Nobody's going to come from the boondocks and live in SoHo and be an artist. You can't afford to park there, let alone live there."

Getting There

Once you negotiate either the Midtown Tunnel or the Williamsburg Bridge, go to Houston Street and head west. Turn south on any of the one-way streets after you cross Broadway. You can generally find on-street parking, but parking garages are available. Some have reduced rates for museum goers.
